Question - 2:

Tell me about some European work related vocabulary?

Ans:

The Schengen Visa:

Allows you to move freely within the Schengen Area, comprised of 15 European countries.

European Economic Area:

The EEA agreement includes a provision for the "free movement of persons." This allows nationals to live, work, study, and establish businesses in any other member countries with little to no obstacles.

Question - 3:

What is a country by country guide?

Ans:

Here is some basic, general information on what you will need to work overseas. However, information varies on a case by case, country by country basis. It depends on what country you are coming from, what country you are going to, your job description and your length of stay. Information also changes quite often, especially as security issues are becoming increasingly important. Therefore, it is always best to contact your local consulate or embassy, which you will need to do anyway when applying for your visa.

Question - 4:

Do you have any questions for me about working internationally?

Ans:

Always have some questions prepared. Questions prepared where you will be an asset to the organization are good. How soon will I be able to be productive? and What type of projects will I be able to assist on? Are examples.

Question - 5:

What is your management style?

Ans:

Try to avoid labels. Some of the more common labels, like progressive, salesman or consensus, can have several meanings or descriptions depending on which management expert you listen to. The situational style is safe, because it says you will manage according to the situation, instead of one size fits all.

Question - 6:

Are you willing to put the interests of the organization abroad of your own?

Ans:

This is a straight loyalty and dedication question. Do not worry about the deep ethical and philosophical implications. Just say yes.

Question - 7:

What was a problem you had with a supervisor while working internationally?

Ans:

Biggest trap of all. This is a test to see if you will speak ill of your boss. If you fall for it and tell about a problem with a former boss, you may well below the interview right there. Stay positive and develop a poor memory about any trouble with a supervisor.

Question - 8:

What is the thing which motivates you to do your best on the international job?

Ans:

This is a personal trait that only you can say, but good examples are: Challenge, Achievement, Recognition.

Question - 9:

What are you looking for in an international job?

Ans:

Stay away from a specific job. You cannot win. If you say the job you are contending for is it, you strain credibility. If you say another job is it, you plant the suspicion that you will be dissatisfied with this position if hired. The best is to stay generic and say something like: A job where I love the work, like the people, can contribute and can not wait to get to work.

Question - 10:

What type of personality would you refuse to work with?

Ans:

Do not be trivial. It would take disloyalty to the organization, violence or lawbreaking to get you to object. Minor objections will label you as a whiner.

Question - 11:

What things irritate you about your colleagues?

Ans:

This is a trap question. Think real hard but fail to come up with anything that irritates you. A short statement that you seem to get along with folks is great.

Question - 12:

Why do you think you would do well at this international job?

Ans:

Give several reasons and include skills, experience and interest.

Question - 13:

Why should we hire you as you are a foreigner?

Ans:

Point out how your assets meet what the organization needs. Do not mention any other candidates to make a comparison.

Question - 14:

What was a suggestion you had made?

Ans:

Have a good one ready. Be sure and use a suggestion that was accepted and was then considered successful. One related to the type of work applied for is a real plus.

Question - 15:

Have you ever been asked to leave your international job?

Ans:

If you have not, say no. If you have, be honest, brief and avoid saying negative things about the people or organization involved.

Question - 16:

Explain how would you be an asset to this organization?

Ans:

You should be anxious for this question. It gives you a chance to highlight your best points as they relate to the position being discussed. Give a little advance thought to this relationship.

Question - 17:

How long would you expect stay and work for us if hired?

Ans:

Specifics here are not good. Something like this should work: I would like it to be a long time. Or As long as we both feel I am doing a good job.

View All Answers

Question - 18:

What is your philosophy towards work?

Ans:

The interviewer is not looking for a long or flowery dissertation here. Do you have strong feelings that the job gets done? Yes. That is the type of answer that works best here. Short and positive, showing a benefit to the organization.

Question - 19:

Do you believe you are a team player?

Ans:

You are, of course, a team player. Be sure to have examples ready. Specifics that show you often perform for the good of the team rather than for yourself are good evidence of your team attitude. Do not brag, just say it in a matter-of-fact tone. This is a key point.

Question - 20:

Why are you interested to work for this organization?

Ans:

This may take some thought and certainly, should be based on the research you have done on the organization. Sincerity is extremely important here and will easily be sensed. Relate it to your long-term career goals.

View All Answers

Question - 21:

Did you apply for other jobs internationally?

Ans:

Be honest but do not spend a lot of time in this area. Keep the focus on this job and what you can do for this organization. Anything else is a distraction.

View All Answers

Question - 22:

What did you do to improve your knowledge in the last year?

Ans:

Try to include improvement activities that relate to the job. A wide variety of activities can be mentioned as positive self-improvement. Have some good ones handy to mention.

View All Answers

Question - 23:

What information you have about this organization?

Ans:

This question is one reason to do some research on the organization before the interview. Find out where they have been and where they are going. What are the current issues and who are the major players?

View All Answers

Question - 24:

Do you think you are a successful person while doing an international job?

Ans:

You should always answer yes and briefly explain why. A good explanation is that you have set goals and you have met some and are on track to achieve the others.

View All Answers

Question - 25:

How would you allow yourself extra time?

Ans:

This process can be very time consuming, so allow yourself plenty of time to complete the visa/work permit process. Processing time can take anywhere from 2 days in some countries to 6 months in others. Your employer will have to arrange for certain documents (and their approval) as well before you can even begin applying for your visa. If you rush through the procedures you could miss an important step and have to start from scratch.

View All Answers

Question - 26:

How would you be in touch with your employer?

Ans:

Your employer overseas will most likely be responsible for obtaining your work permit. And without a work permit, you will not be able to process your visa application. Your employer will also have to produce a contract of employment that determines your length of stay in the country and other documents concerning their business validity and your employment.

Question - 27:

Tell me about international work and international play?

Ans:

To travel overseas as a tourist and to travel overseas as an employee are two very different situations. Be aware that the entry procedures and requirements are usually not the same. For instance, in many cases, tourists do not need a visa, permitted their stay does not last longer than a certain time. When entering the country as an employee, not only does the visit often last longer, requiring a different visa but the government might have a say in the activities you can engage in while in the country.

Question - 28:

How will you meet the embassy for international job?

Ans:

A country's main presence in a foreign country is often an embassy. This is an important source of information for anyone who would like to travel or work overseas. They can also assist you in finding the nearest consulate office. An Embassy is also sometimes called a High Commission.

View All Answers

Question - 29:

How would you know your local consulate for international job?

Ans:

If you are looking to work overseas, the consular should be your new best friend. A consular is by definition an official appointed by a government to reside in a foreign country and represent his or her government's commercial interests and assist its citizens there. More importantly, a consular is your ticket to obtaining all the entry/residency requirements you will need to work in that country. This is where you apply for your visa or permit. Most countries position several consulate offices in each foreign country, so you should not have any trouble finding one.

Question - 30:

List some tips to prepare for international job?

Ans:

- * Know your local consulate
- * Meet the embassy
- * International working vs international playing
- * Be in touch with your employer
- * Allow yourself extra time
- * Documents to have available
- * Some European work related vocabulary
- * A country by country guide
