Question - 5:

What irritates you about co workers?

Ans:

This is a trap question. Think real hard but fail to come up with anything that irritates you. A short statement that you seem to get along with folks is great. If co-worker starts gossiping during work hours will irritate me and also if he doesn't completes the work given by me.

Question - 6:

Why are you leaving your present job? (or, Why did you leave your Job)?

Ans:

Stay positive regardless of the circumstances. Never refer to a major problem with management and never speak ill of supervisors, co-workers or the organization. If you do, you will be the one looking bad. Keep smiling and talk about leaving for a positive reason such as an opportunity, a chance to do something special or other forward-looking reasons.

Question - 8:

What is important to you in a company? What things do you look for in an organization?

Ans:

Its a tricky question and donot give two different answers for these two questions because when you say something is important for you then you should look for the same and not a different one. For example, a good work environment and an opportunity to learn and grow might be important for an individual. So he should look in for the same from the organization.

Question - 9:

Have you ever had to fire anyone? Then how did you feel about that?

Ans:

This is serious. Do not make light of it or in any way seem like you like to fire people. At the same time, you will do it when it is the right thing to do. When it comes to the organization versus the individual who has created a harmful situation, you will protect the organization. Remember firing is not the same as layoff or reduction in force.

Question - 12:

Tell me about the problem you had with a supervisor?

Ans:

Biggest trap of all. This is a test to see if you will speak ill of your boss. If you fall for it and tell about a problem with a former boss, you may well below the interview right there. Stay positive and develop a poor memory about any trouble with a supervisor.

Question - 13:

How much supervision have you typically received in your previous job?

Ans:

Answer this question in the way so that it seems that your superiors were very supporting and technically sound and at the same time you learned the things very quickly and after some head start you started working without a great deal of supervision and even some times you have suggested some innovative solutions for some problem and got appreciations from your supervisors. Over all process of supervision should be depicted as a happy learning experience with not more then required efforts from supervisors.
