Question - 16:

Do you know what personal qualifications should a registered nurse possess, besides professional training?

Ans:

Nurses are patient and emotionally intelligent. They are efficient and organized, and kind at all times. It is as much the job of the nurse to offer sympathy to the patient as it is to perform the more technical tasks, such as administering injections and taking temperature.

View All Answers

Question - 17:

What you think about interpersonal communication is important to the profession of a registered nurse?

Ans:

Nurses interact both with patients and with other medical personnel. Communication skills are very important. Patients require tolerance and sensitivity. Medical personnel require team work, coordination and cooperation, and clearly communicated information which facilitates planning and implementing adequate care plans.

Question - 21:

Tell me what are your likes and dislikes about nursing job?

Ans:

All jobs have advantages and disadvantages. As you respond, be careful - do not say anything that puts your previous jobs in a bad light, unless it was a well-known or extreme situation. Focus on the positive, mention a few good things about previous job(s). If you feel it is important, briefly outline any disadvantages. Close with more positive comments.

View All Answers

Question - 22:

Tell me how did you share your knowledge with colleagues?

Ans:

Nursing involves helping, sharing and efficient medical team work. These capabilities are nursing fundamentals; it is impossible to work alone. Therefore, tell interviewers about your positive past group experiences and try to convince the employer that you are a team player.

Question - 23:

What is day to day work?

Ans:

Every person in the medical world should be resourceful and organized in their work. Without organization, even the greatest of geni would not have been able to achieve their complete potential. Therefore, tell the interviewer about how organized you are in your work and even in your personal life; give examples. This will add value to your resume, and raise your chances of landing the position.

View All Answers

Question - 24:

What you do in emergency situations?

Ans:

The medical world is full of emergency situations, and anyone with any experience at all must have a few incidents to speak of. When answering this question, tell about some of the most challenging and difficult cases that you have faced. You can also talk about a specific problem and how you handled it. Make sure that you speak about the added value that the situation gave to your medical experience.

Question - 27:

Explain how you perform under pressure?

Ans:

The settings in which nurses work can quickly turn into pressure-cooker environments. To be blunt, the interviewer does not want to hire anyone who is so emotionally fragile that they'll shatter like plate glass when faced with the day-to-day pressures of the job.

View All Answers

Question - 28:

Why you want to work with us as nurse?

Ans:

Your reasons for wanting to work at this place of employment should be positive. Also, make a connection between your career goals and how they can be achieved at this company.

View All Answers

Question - 29:

Tell us what you know about nursing?

Ans:

Insert any nursing specialty into the blank space provided. You will stand out to the interviewer as a candidate who truly has passion about the specialty if you know more about it than the average person. If your dream is to work as a nurse in a well-baby nursery, you'd better be knowledgeable about the area in which you envision yourself working.

View All Answers

Question - 30:

Do not hesitate if you have any questions for us?

Ans:

Ask the interviewer a question or two, whether it pertains to nurse/patient ratios, length of orientation, or educational opportunities. You might appear uninterested if you have no questions.

View All Answers

Question - 31:

Recall a difficult situation and tell us how you handled it?

Ans:

If you have healthcare experience, they want to know how you have dealt with angry doctors, emotionally upset families, or difficult patients. If you lack healthcare experience, you can discuss a difficult situation that occurred in school or a previous workplace.

View All Answers

Question - 32:

Tell me what motivates you to be a nurse?

Ans:

Companies prefer to hire healthcare workers who are motivated by intangible ideals, not concrete realities such as money. Even if cash is your ultimate motivation, do not elaborate on your need for money.

View All Answers

Question - 33:

What is your salary requirements?

Ans:

This question is sneaky. Some companies have strict pay grids and other facilities are unionized, so salary typically cannot be negotiated at these places. However, smaller workplaces may offer some wiggle room for negotiating the salary. The important thing is to not price oneself out of the market.

Question - 36:

What are some positive personality traits that will help you in your job?

Ans:

Instead of saying something generic like, "I am a great communicator or I pay close attention to detail", provide a personal story. "I have always been the type person to go the extra mile in everything I do in life. I give it 110%. When I was completing my training course, I was working with a patient I had gotten to know well. Her conversations with me one morning were nothing like we had before. I just had a feeling something wasn't right even though she looked well and her vitals were fine.

Even so, I talked to my supervisor to let her know something was wrong. The doctor was called and it turned out the patient was ill that day. Since I had always taken time to really talk to and understand my patients, I was able to help when she was not well."

Question - 38:

What measures have you taken to upgrade your knowledge?

Ans:

If you have attended any seminar or pursued a degree for the sake of enhancing your knowledge and competency in working, mention them.

View All Answers

Question - 39:

What is the most difficult part of being a nurse?

Ans:

Nursing is not an easy job. You keep on learning throughout your career. By asking this question, the interviewer wants to know your views about the hardships of this profession.

According to me, the most intricate part of being a nurse is having a patient, who suffers from an incapacitating disease, which is incurable.

View All Answers

Question - 40:

How would you handle a patient, who complains about everything?

Ans:

The main motto of asking this question is to determine whether you are capable of handling difficult situations or not. While answering this question, you can share any difficult situation that you have managed in your previous workplace.

The major reason of complaints is their diseases, which makes them unhappy. As a nurse, I would understand their situation, listen and reassure them that the best possible services are given to them.

Question - 42:

Where do you see yourself in six years?

Ans:

The main objective of the interrogator is to know whether you are a career-oriented, ambitious, determined worker and have a positive outlook in nursing. So, avoid discussing your dreams and share an answer, which exhibits your real commitment and interest.

In 6 years, I would like to have profound knowledge of nursing by way of earning a doctoral degree, so that I can serve people with more advanced techniques.

View All Answers

Question - 43:

Explain why are you leaving your current job?

Ans:

Instead of criticizing your previous job, pinpoint the positive aspects. Never give a negative reason for leaving, stay away from bad mouthing your employer or colleagues. Focus on the opportunities that will come with the new job.

My previous job taught me so many things and developed necessary qualities required to be a proficient nurse. But now, there is no room for growth, and I am looking forward for new challenges to thrive in nursing.

View All Answers

Question - 44:

Why do you want to work in the healthcare sector?

Ans:

A person, who decides to become a nurse, has some different reasons other than earning money, to enter this field. This question gives you a chance to express your desire to help out individuals and how important human life is for you.

I believe that with this profession, I can make a difference, and make people feel better. Seeing so many people in pain and misery motivated me to practice nursing.

View All Answers

Question - 45:

Plese tell us something about yourself and your qualities?

Ans:

I am a highly motivated, energetic, and compassionate person, wants to dedicate my whole life to nursing. I am a great communicator and loves helping people. My previous credits and experience of 4 years taught me the importance of patients' care and developed a sense of responsibility.
