Achievements Interview Questions And Answers Guide.

Question - 1:

What are your most proudest Achievements?

Ans:

Try not to go too far back; try to pick a recent achievement. If you've included an Achievements section in your CV, then this will be a good starting point for you to generate ideas.

Question - 3:

What was the benefit of your recent achievements?

Ans:

My greatest achievement so far in my career would probably be winning the Manager of the Year award last year. I made numerous operational changes at my branch, including a massive reduction in stock levels - which significantly boosted our working capital. I also drove up sales levels, especially by increasing the uptake of after-sales insurance packages. The net effect was that we smashed the previous branch sales record by an impressive 37% - and profits rose in line with this. This directly resulted in my promotion to the management of the flagship Edinburgh branch.

Question - 4:

What has been the high point of your career so far?

Ans:

You'll want to make sure you have thought through this question carefully before the interview and have selected both a key professional achievement as well as a key personal achievement; cover both bases.

Question - 5:

What actions you took to achieve the goal?

Ans:

- * Tasks during the activity
- * personal management activities
- * The changes and difficulties that you handled effectively.

Question - 6:

Why to Keep achievements professional and positive?

Ans:

Don't let yourself become a victim during this answer. I have often seen people focus on the negatives of the situation they have overcome, rather than the achievement of overcoming it. Sometimes I don't think they even realise they are doing it! Keep it upbeat and professional.

Question - 7:

Why to tell about recent achievement?

Ans:

Try to pick an achievement that is still quite recent. I once asked someone this question and she told me that moving to university was her biggest achievement as she missed her family terribly. I get this, I really do, but she had graduated 15 years earlier and I was hoping for something more recent and relevant than that.

Question - 8:

Why to keep real about achievements?

Ans:

It is important that you pick an achievement that you are genuinely proud of, something that is true to you. When we tell stories we naturally relive the emotions we felt during that time and you want to be passionate and engaging when talking to your interviewer.

Question - 14:

Tell me something about your travel Achievements?

Ans:

On academic accomplishment, I managed to successfully complete my study. On professional/career achievement, I managed to survive and adapt in one of the undeveloped countries in Africa to support and train local people to do our job function for my company. I also did the same role for my company in one of central Asia countries and these experiences taught me to not be shy and to overcome the fears of talking and communicating with people. In the oil service industry you have to have a very outgoing personality and can't be shy, and this made me a love travel. I love to visit a lot of places and learn about different cultures. I am proud to say that I am a person who really knows what multicultural means.
