Question - 1:

List some important tips to become a hard worker?

Ans:

Some important tips to be a hard worker are as follows:

- * Focus on one thing you want to do at a specific time.
- * Do not listen to people who want to discourage you. Keep in mind that they may try really hard to discourage you because they want to become more successful than you are and they are jealous of you.
- * Learn from your mistakes and do not make them again.
- * If you have a skill that you think others do not possess, let potential employers know that you have it in you. Always show the best that you have within but be humble and consider it not such a big deal.
- * Give examples of your past hard worker in an interview for a job. This is one of the main qualities that employers look for in an employee.
- * Teach others to be hardworking. They will thank you for it in the future.
- * Ask for help if you need it. Many people are glad to help with skills like this.
- * Make one choice and do everything you can to get closer to your goal.

Question - 17:

Please define dedication in hard worker?

Ans:

Dedication to the employer and focus makes this worker an asset to the company. She is ethically motivated to provide an honest day of work for her wages. She takes pride in her abilities. Periodic recognition for her efforts will reinforce her actions. She may be willing to take on additional responsibilities but may over-extend herself in an attempt to be more helpful. This employee may be a candidate for a promotion or she may be happy where she is. A supervisor will want to discuss future growth with the employee and assess what path is best for both the employee and the company.

Question - 20:

What does a low maintenance mean in hard worker?

Ans:

No matter how hard an employee works, if she requires constant supervision and error correction then her employer will not likely see her as an asset. This means the tenacious employee must make an extra effort to be self-reliant and accurate. This does not mean she should be afraid to ask for help or additional training as needed but it does mean that once she is trained, she can handle her daily tasks without hand-holding by her supervisor.

Question - 22:

Tell me about productivity in hard worker?

Ans:

A hard-working employee stays focused on the tasks before her and spends little time chatting with other employees. Her work is consistently of acceptable to excellent quality and she looks for more work if everything assigned to her is done. You will not catch a hard-working employee browsing the Internet for shoe sales or downloading the latest and greatest hits from her favorite musicians. She is at work to do exactly that work.

Question - 24:

Please give a few examples of hard work?

Ans:

If work is applying your ability, then hard work is applying your ability with focus and intensity to the exclusion of other possibilities:

- * Farming is hard work because you can not take a vacation in the summer.
- * Extreme programming is hard work because your customer, your group and your partner all direct your attention.
- * Cheating on your spouse is hard work because you can never relax and just be yourself.
- * Writing wiky is easy work, perhaps the easiest writing of consequence ever invented.

Question - 25:

Define what is a hard work?

Ans:

Hard work is the basis for everything worthwhile you will achieve in life.

It is a term that means different things to different people:

- * Applying your ability with focus and intensity
- * Any activity that you don't want to do
- * Any activity that you find difficult and strenuous

Distinguishing these concepts sorta takes the fun out of arguing about them.
