Student Services & Support Officer Interview Questions And Answers Guide.

Question - 1:

Tell me about a time when you made the wrong decision?

Ans:

This is something that might be very difficult to answer. Whatever you choose to talk about, important to remember is to say what the outcome was and state what you learned from this experience. Don't say that you were fired!

Question - 2:

Tell me how do you feel about multitasking at work?

Ans:

Multitasking is a necessary part of an administration job, so say that you enjoy multitasking and the challenge of ensuring that multiple functions and jobs are completed accurately and on time is part of what motivates you in your work.

Question - 3:

Tell me do you enjoy meeting new people and interacting with customers?

Ans:

Meeting people and speaking to customers is often a vital part of being an administrator. Say that you enjoy talking to people and that interaction with other people is often what makes the work most interesting.

Question - 4:

Tell me what do we really get if we employ you?

Ans:

This is similar to "what can you bring to this organisation?"

View All Answers

Question - 5:

Explain how do you cope with busy, stressful periods?

Ans:

Answer that by staying organised and keeping a strict diary you find that stress does not become a real issue. As soon as you identify a possible delay due to high work volumes you raise this with your manager to see if the work can either be reallocated or given priority.

Question - 6:

Tell me do you have any skills such as shorthand/touch typing?

Ans:

Ideally, you will be able to touch type well, so say yes to this. Shorthand is a dying art and fewer people are learning how to do this well. If you have the opportunity to learn it, then do so, because some managers like their administrators to be able to take down shorthand.

Question - 7:

Tell me how do you deal with authority?

Ans:

Say that you deal with authority as you deal with customers - with integrity, professionalism and politeness.

View All Answers

Question - 8:

Explain me how you went about acquiring (a) new skill(s)?

Ans:

This could be through study, training or experience. It all depends on the type of person you are and the type of skills you have.

View All Answers

Question - 9:

Tell me what kind of work would I be doing?

Ans:

Translates to: Is this what I want to be doing? You don't want to accept a job where you don't really know the sort of things you'll be doing, especially if you find that your daily tasks are too easy.

View All Answers

Question - 10:

Tell us how do you cope under pressure?

Ans:

Provide some examples of occasions where you were under pressure and you succeeded.

View All Answers

Question - 11:

Please explain the culture of your company in and around the office?

Ans:

Translates to: Is this the sort of company I want to work for, 8 hours a day, 5 days a week? If you're a very laid back person, a very strict work place might not be for you (and vice versa).

View All Answers

Question - 12:

Tell us are you able to use any relevant software packages?

Ans:

If you have experience, mention the packages you have used. If not, get some training in the most important packages before your interview. Ask your recruitment consultant what are the best packages to learn.

View All Answers

Question - 13:

Explain me what does your company value?

Ans:

Do your values align with mine? If you are working for a company that values the same things as you (for example, greener technology, pro bono work) then you may enjoy working for a place like that better.

View All Answers

Question - 14:

Tell me are you good at solving problems?

Ans:

Not all administrators need to be excellent problem solvers so if you are not the best, be honest and say so. You could say that you are not good at solving problems but you understand the skills of your colleagues well and will always be able to persuade somebody to assist.

View All Answers

Question - 15:

Tell me what do you consider to be your best strength?

Ans:

This question allows you to brag on yourself, but keep in mind that the interviewer wants strengths relative to the position. For example, being a problem solver, a motivator, and being able to perform under pressure, positive attitude and loyal. You will also need examples that back your answers up for illustration of the skill.

Question - 16:

Explain me why is there a gap in your employment record?

Ans:

While gaps have been more common during the recession you need to show doing something of value. It could include improving your skills, certifications or connections. Building relationships as a volunteer is a usual answer, but you need to show how you were productive. Play down the vacation, reflection time, etc. If you did consulting work build up the value of what you got out of it. Don't disclose how little you might have been paid.

Question - 17:

Explain me what are you looking for in the ideal candidate for this position?

Ans:

Do I fit the bill for the kind of person they are looking for? Maybe you'd know whether you are up to the job better than they.

Question - 18:

Tell me what have you done to improve your knowledge for as Student Support Officer?

Ans:

Everyone should learn from his or her mistakes. I always try to consult my mistakes with my kith and kin especially with those senior to me. I enrolled myself into a course useful for the next version of our current project. I attended seminars on personal development and managerial skills improvement.

Question - 19:

Tell me what didn't work in your last position?

Ans:

Be honest here but you don't need to lay it all out either, for example if you and your boss didn't get along. Don't bash your former employer. It could be the culture, it could be there was little room for career progression, you didn't agree with the vision of the company say what it is, then move quickly to focusing on what you want instead.

View All Answers

Question - 20:

Tell me why are you leaving last job?

Ans:

Although this would seem like a simple question, it can easily become tricky. You shouldn't mention salary being a factor at this point. If you're currently employed, your response can focus on developing and expanding your career and even yourself. If you're current employer is downsizing, remain positive and brief. If your employer fired you, prepare a solid reason. Under no circumstance should you discuss any drama or negativity, always remain positive.

Question - 22:

Tell us why aren't you looking for a job in your area of expertise?

Ans:

You've done some soul searching, weren't completely fulfilled or your talents weren't being utilized enough in the current industry and realized this was the right path for you. I've had clients say that to employers and they were impressed they had taken the time to really find their direction and that they had such focus. Another reason could be they want to add to their skill set.

Question - 23:

Explain me what are your communication skills like?

Ans:

Say that they are very good and that you can communicate well face-to-face, on the telephone and via the Internet on email. Tell us about a time in your professional career when you went out of your way to complete a task for someone else. Hopefully, you have some real experiences - but you may have forgotten them by now. Think back and try to recall a time that you may have helped somebody when they were under pressure or off sick.

Question - 24:

Why do you believe we should hire you for Student Services and Support Officer?

Ans:

This question needs to be carefully answered as it is your opportunity to stick out from the rest of the applicants. You should focus on skills that you have, including those not yet mentioned. Simply responding "because I'm really good" or "I really need a job" isn't going to work. You shouldn't assume the skills of other applicants or their strengths, focus on yourself. Tell the interviewer why you are a good fit for the position, what makes you a good employee, and what you can provide the company. Keep it brief while highlighting achievements.

Question - 25:

Tell us what is it about our company that appeals to you?

Ans:

Don't be afraid to talk about their reputation "On the Street" and how you are a good fit. If they are viewed as aggressive for example, talk about how that fits with you, or the interest in where this culture can take the business. Avoid sugar coating your comments as the finance industry is too sophisticated to accept simplistic answers that don't represent a deeper understanding.

Question - 26:

Tell me what are your weaknesses and what should you improve on?

Ans:

You should never pretend you don't have any nor come up with a list like "I work too much." Come up with a real weakness, like prioritization, time management perhaps - something that is real but also wouldn't jeopardized your ability to do the job and focus on what you do about it. I'm working on improving my time management for example, I use an online calendar and schedule my tasks inside that calendar and plan my week each Monday estimating time needed for each task and project.

Question - 36:

Explain me what do you consider to be your biggest weakness?

Ans:

This can be a tricky question to respond to, if you suggest you have no weaknesses you're going to appear as a liar or egotistical. You should respond realistically by mentioning small work related weaknesses. Although many try to answer using a positive skill in disguise as a weakness, like "I expect co-workers to have the same commitment" or "I am a perfectionist". However, it is recommended that there is some honesty and the weaknesses are true, and then emphasize on how you have overcome it or working to improve it. The purpose of this question is to see how you view and evaluate yourself.

Question - 37:

Tell me what role do you think an administrator plays in the office dynamic?

Ans:

Say that an administrator plays an important role in ensuring that diaries are properly managed and that all outgoing correspondence is well written and all incoming correspondence is read and delivered to the relevant managers quickly.

Question - 38:

Tell me how would you react if you felt you were being pushed too far at work?

Ans:

If pushed too far you would consider speaking to your manager about workloads and expectations and try to resolve the situation.

Question - 39:

Tell us do you feel you can work well unsupervised/in a team/both?

Ans:

Mention some incidents where you had to work in a team, perhaps a drama performance, or a sporting event where you had to come together with your teammates. For me, for unsupervised I would probably talk about writing my university dissertation and not really having any contact hours with my tutor for guidance; while for team work I'd mention when I was in year 11 and as part of a group we had to make a scale model of the small estate where our school was located for a local anniversary.

Question - 40:

Tell me how much money do you make?

Ans:

As in any negotiation the person who says the number first is at a disadvantage. You can try and say you are interested in the job and you are sure salary is fair and commensurate with industry levels. If pushed you say you are looking for a "total compensation package in the range of ____to____". In some companies they will insist on a W2 form so don't lie about current salary.

Question - 41:

Tell me why do you think you'd be good at this role?

Ans:

Here you could pick up on where you left off with "what are your strengths", i.e. relating all your skills and attributes to the responsibilities you would undertake in the role. If you're a clear and confident speaker, for example, and your job will involve answering lots of telephones, then this is the sort of thing you'd need to mention.

Question - 42:

Explain with an example of a time you have delivered great customer service?

Ans:

Ideally, you have some real work experience that you can talk about. Talk in some detail about what you did and why it was great. If you have no direct work experience then talk about an event where you helped a friend to resolve a problem and that these skills can be used in administration and customer care work.

Question - 43:

Tell me what field experience do you have for a STUDENT SUPPORT OFFICER POSITION?

Ans:

Speak about specifics that relate to the position you are applying for. If you do not have specific experience, get as close as you can. If you are being asked this question from your employer then you can explain your experience. Tell the employer what responsibilities you were performing during your job. You can tell what programs you developed and what modules you worked on. What were your achievements regarding different programs. I have been working with computers since 2001. I also have a degree in network support/computer repair. I have built my last 3 computers, have work with Dell as an employee. So I have around 15 years experience working with computers.

Question - 44:

Tell me what do you see yourself doing in five years?

Ans:

This is another question looking towards job commitment. Some people go through jobs like socks because they don't have a life plan, and your answer can show insight into this. It can also be used for finding out if you are the type that sets goals at all in life, because those that make long-term goals are usually more reliable. Also, your goals can provide insight on your personality too. You should respond with an answer that shows progression in your career is on track with your route in the company. It's important to do your research on company prospects, this way you understand what to expect and if it's in your long-term goal. Interviewers don't want to set you on a path that won't provide the results you want, resulting in you resigning.

Question - 45:

Tell us what aspects of your previous jobs have you disliked?

Ans:

This is similar to the tell us about your weaknesses question. You can't say you have none, and you can't say something fake like I work too hard. You need to be honest here with parameters: Prepare your answer so it comes across in a positive, productive way and not as bashing your former employer. Choose things that are about the job itself preferably, not your terrible boss, so you're focusing on things that don't come across as talking badly about people, which isn't necessary or helpful. Things like the lack of structure or process is an example of something you could say. Or the lack of direction for your department.

Question - 46:

Please explain how many people at my level (college graduate/university graduate etc) are you looking to hire this round?

Ans:

Translates to: What sort of chance do I have of getting this job? At least knowing it is a highly competitive position will make it less disappointing if you hear nothing back.

Question - 47:

Explain me why do you think it's important to be positive in an admin role?

Ans:

Being positive is important because often a person's attitude to their work can come across in their writing and presentation. Administrators sometimes provide the first impression a customer has of a business, so a positive and professional outlook is needed at all times.

Question - 48:

Tell me how do you keep yourself organised when dealing with tasks and requests from multiple sources?

Ans:

The best way to stay organised is to keep a log of every request and each task completed so that nothing is accidentally left to go past a deadline. Mention any software that you use for this purpose.

Question - 49:

What are your salary expectations generally?

Ans:

This question is like a loaded gun, tricky and dangerous if you're not sure what you are doing. It's not uncommon for people to end up talking salary before really selling their skills, but knowledge is power as this is a negotiation after all. Again, this is an area where doing your research will be helpful as you will have an understanding of average salary.

One approach is asking the interviewer about the salary range, but to avoid the question entirely, you can respond that money isn't a key factor and you're goal is to advance in your career. However, if you have a minimum figure in mind and you believe you're able to get it, you may find it worth trying.

Question - 50:

Explain us about your ability to work under pressure?

Ans:

You may say that you thrive under certain types of pressure. Give an example that relates to the type of position applied for.

Mention routine pressure you face, such as dealing with deadlines on a regular basis.

Try not to use an example where you created the pressure yourself, by waiting too long to start something, or by handling a task irresponsibly at the beginning. For example, working under pressure to meet a customer's deadline could be a good example, but not if you had waited too long to start the project.

Pressure is actually a catalyst to my work. When there is an imperative deadline, I refocus my energy into my work which in fact, has helped me to produce some of my best works. (Give examples) I guess you can say I thrive under pressure.

Question - 51:

Explain me about yourself (ie where do you start, what do you cover personal v. professional)?

Ans:

Keep in mind they are not asking about you personally but you as a professional or business person. This is the time to name your strengths in a narrative way. "I am best known for my innovative and strategic approach to complex problems." Then tell them how you came to this skillset by talking about your work experience and education. Always start with the present and work backwards.

Two minutes into the answer ask "shall I continue?" You do not want to eat up all of your interview time and lose the person's attention with a long-winded answer. Only at the end can you add something personally by saying "in my off hours I enjoy running and I coach a kids' track team." Makes you human.

Question - 52:

Explain me what do you offer to your clients and employees that other companies do not?

Ans:

Translates to: Why should I work here? It would be nice to know the little perks and bonuses you might be entitled to, to help you make up your mind about whether you'd want to work there.

Question - 53:

Explain me about a time you used leadership/initiative/good judgement?

Ans:

What happened? What was the outcome? Questions about leadership can be academic or otherwise. Consider any roles you might have had in clubs or societies. Maybe you organised events for your university sports team, or you were head boy/girl at school/college and made some good decisions

Question - 54:

Tell me what do you enjoy most/least about this type of work?

Ans:

This is similar to the strengths/weaknesses questions - what you like least must be turned into a positive trait. Say that you enjoy the challenge of meeting deadlines and of working in a team environment. For what you like least, say that you do not like it when you see disorganised work and a poorly managed diary; you feel the need to help organise and manage the workload.

Question - 55:

Tell me what experience do you have in administrator roles?

Ans:

Here is your chance to run through all of your experience. Be concise and if you have done multiple roles, mention something specific for each one. Show that you have a lot of experience and are flexible.

Question - 56:

Tell me do you have any questions?

Ans:

It is common for this question to be asked every time, and you should have questions ready. By asking questions you are able to show that you have enough interest to do some research, and that you want to learn all that you can. You should limit the questions to no more than three or four.

You can try asking questions that focus on areas where you can be an asset. Other options include asking about what your position would be, and how fast they expect you to become productive. Also, asking about the next step in the process and when to expect to hear about the position.

Question - 57:

What knowledge do you have about the company regarding our student services?

Ans:

You should do your research prior to the interview. Look into background history of the company, this will help you stick out. Learn about main people, have they been in the news lately? The interviewer doesn't expect you to know dates and certain people, but showing that you have enough interest to research the company is a positive impression.
