Cloth Washer Interview Questions And Answers Guide.

Question - 1:

Why did you leave your last job as Cloth Washer?

Ans:

Whatever the situation was from your previous job, you should always answer this question with a positive and enthusiastic response. If the reason for leaving your last job was redundancy, then you should talk about how your company had to restructure, instead of focusing on your own personal situation. Under no circumstances should you criticise your previous employer, as this will appear unprofessional.

Question - 2:

When was the last time that you thought outside of the box? What did you do?

Ans:

While playing with my sisters dog my 2 year old sister ran out of my parents room crying because my mom refused to play with her so instead I went and picked her up and hand her a tennis ball and imitated throughing it till she followed my lead and threw it for the dog to chase after while I got the ball back from the dog and continued doing this not only making the dog happy but my little sister to at the same time.

Question - 3:

What are your salary expectations as Cloth Washer?

Ans:

Many consider this question to be a loaded gun - dangerous in the hands of the inexperienced. Often times, an interviewee will start talking salary before they've had an opportunity to illustrate their skill set and value making any sort of leverage valueless. Here, knowledge is power, as salary often comes down to negotiation. Do some research into your industry to establish base rates of pay based on seniority and demand but keep in mind - your employer is hiring you for what they believe you are worth, and how much benefit they feel you will provide.

Question - 6:

Explain me about your ability to work under pressure as Cloth Washer?

Ans:

I'd like to think I react to situations as opposed to stress. The reality is, when handled correctly, many problems avoid becoming unnecessarily stressful. Come to think of it, I believe I actually work better under pressure. It's help me produce some of my best work and to be honest I like being challenged. From a stress management point of view, I like to burn off the day with a workout or by going for a run.

Question - 9:

What do you see yourself doing in five years as Cloth Washer?

Ans:

This one is all about job commitment.

Some people make job hopping a career in of itself, and your answer here can be telling. Here, your interviewer is determining if you are:

- * someone who sets goals
- * someone who has a vision
- * someone who is reliable
- * someone who demonstrates commitment
- * someone who is loyal

While no interviewer expects someone to stay at a company forever, try and craft your response in such a way that shows progression in your career, and alignment with the Company's needs and future. Again, self awareness is key - your employer doesn't want to send you down an unwanted path, resulting in wasted time and energy for everyone.

Question - 10:

Why do you want to work as Hotel laundry attendant for this organisation?

Ans:

Being unfamiliar with the organisation will spoil your chances with 75% of interviewers, according to one survey, so take this chance to show you have done your preparation and know the company inside and out. You will now have the chance to demonstrate that you've done your research, so reply mentioning all the positive things you have found out about the organisation and its sector etc. This means you'll have an enjoyable work environment and stability of employment etc - everything that brings out the best in you.

Question - 12:

As you know I like what I am hearing but we have got a ton of great candidates. Why should we hire you?

Ans:

An easy question to answer well with one caveat - don't slam your fellow interviewee's. On the one hand, you have an opportunity to really stand out from the pack. Alternatively, You shouldn't assume the skills of other applicants. Focus on your own strengths, and if the interviewer hasn't given you an opportunity to mention that one "slam dunk" quality about yourself, now would be the time.

Is there a wrong way to answer this question? Consider the responses below:

"I really need a job right now"

"I need the money"

"Your office is really close to my house"

"I've always been interested in what you guys do"

Question - 13:

Please explain us a difficult situation you have overcome in the workplace?

Ans:

Conflict resolution, problem solving, communication and coping under pressure are transferable skills desired by many employers.

Answering this question right can help you demonstrate all of these traits.

- Use real-life examples from your previous roles that you are comfortable explaining
- Choose an example that demonstrates the role you played in resolving the situation clearly
- Remain professional at all times - you need to demonstrate that you can keep a cool head and know how to communicate with people

Question - 15:

Tell me what experience do you have with respects to this particular LAUNDRY WORKER position?

Ans:

Ever since my first paper route at age 10 I've been doing something to keep myself busy and earn money. Back then, it was obviously about earning some spending money. What I didn't realize was that I was actually starting the journey of establishing what I liked to do and how I fit in to the grand scheme of things. I then worked as a junior computer tech in my last 2 summers of high school. It was here that I discovered what I was passionate about and what I wanted to do. I enrolled in college to get my degree in computer sciences, and I have been working around technology ever since.

Question - 16:

What are your weaknesses as Cloth Washer?

Ans:

Another tricky one. The purpose of this question is to see how you view and evaluate yourself.

One the one hand, if you suggest you don't have any weaknesses, your interviewer will almost certainly see you as a lair, egotistical, or both.

Don't fall into the trap of trying to present a positive skill in disguise as a weakness, like "I work too hard" or "I am a perfectionist". Any experienced interviewer will see through this in a heartbeat.

Additionally, revealing that "I'm not really a morning person and have been known to come in late" raises immediate and obvious red flags.

The trick here is to respond realistically by mentioning a small, work related weakness and what you are doing or have done to overcome it.

Question - 31:

As you know I am curious - how did you come to find out about our company and what do you know about us?

Ans:

This can be a great way to stand out from other applicants and demonstrate initiative. Almost every company will have a website, Facebook page, Instagram account, or some sort of digital footprint. Spend a bit of time doing some online research:

- * If they have a website, check out their "About us" or "Culture/Mission/Vision" pages.
- * Who are some of the principal people who work there? Who are the founders?
- * What sorts of things does this company care about? Do they donate to a particular cause or charity? Which one(s)?
- * What are their core values? Which of their core values resonate with you?
- * Has the company been in the news recently or have they won any awards (Social Media can be a great place to find this information).

While your interviewer won't expect you to have in-depth company history, a little here can go a long way.

Question - 33:

As you know our field is always changing and as such, what have you done with regards to personal development when it comes to our posted LAUNDRY WORKER POSITION in the last 12 months?

Ans:

That is a really great question. While I haven't had the opportunity to develop within this particular role per se, I have actually become very involved in my local foodbank this year. This has taught me a great deal about community, teamwork, and taking initiative.

I took it upon myself to enroll in a summer business admin course at the local community college. Through this, I picked up some really great knowledge on communication and teamwork, as well as further develop overall managerial skills. Though it may not be directly applicable to this particular job, I believe the overall experience I gained could be a real asset here.

Question - 36:

Explain me what would you like to be doing five years from now as Cloth Washer?

Ans:

The safest answer contains a desire to be regarded as a true professional and team player. As far as promotion, that depends on finding a manager with whom you can grow. Of course, you will ask what opportunities exist within the company before being any more specific: "From my research and what you have told me about the growth here, it seems operations is where the heavy emphasis is going to be. It seems that's where you need the effort and where I could contribute toward the company's goals." Or, "I have always felt that first-hand knowledge and experience open up opportunities that one might never have considered, so while at this point in time I plan to be a part of [e.g.] operations, it is reasonable to expect that other exciting opportunities will crop up in the meantime."

Question - 39:

I do not expect you to go into too much details; but why are you leaving your last job?

Ans:

An innocent question. But a question that if answered improperly, can be a deal breaker. While many individuals will be looking to a new job as a means of increasing their salary, "not being paid well enough at your last job" is not something you want to mention to your interviewer. After all, are you not likely to leave this particular job if you found you could make more down the street?

If you're currently employed and leaving of your own accord, craft your response around enhancing your career development and a seeking out of new challenges.

If your current employer is downsizing, be honest about it, remain positive, but keep it brief. If your employer fired you or let you go for cause, be prepared to give a brief - but honest - reply. No matter how tempting it may be, or how "unfair it was that they let you go" steer clear away from any and all drama and negativity. Any experienced employer understands that sometimes things happen. Staying positive is key here.

Question - 45:

What are your weaknesses for Hotel laundry attendant position?

Ans:

Try not to be too critical when answering this question. Instead, pick one of your weaknesses and try to turn it into a positive.

For example, you could be a perfectionist, which means that you sometimes take longer on tasks, but you make sure that they are completed to a high quality. It is important to make a negative into a positive as it doesn't make you appear overly critical and shows you can reflect on your own performance.

Question - 50:

What are your strengths as Cloth Washer?

Ans:

While this question is an invitation to do some chest pounding, remember to illustrate strengths that will benefit the employer and are relative to the position. For example:

- * being a problem solver
- * being a motivator
- * being a natural leader
- * the ability to perform under pressure
- * a positive attitude
- * loyalty

Are typically all solid strengths, but again, consider the position. For example, mentioning you are an excellent "team player" in a job where you largely work alone suddenly becomes irrelevant to the employer and demonstrates a genuine lack of self awareness.
