Operations Coordinator Interview Questions And Answers Guide.

Question - 1:

Can you what differentiates this company from other competitors?

Ans:

Be positive and nice about their competitors but also discuss how they are better than them and why they are the best choice for the customer. For example: "Company XYZ has a good product, but I truly believe your company has a 3-5 year vision for your customer that aligns to their business needs."

Question - 9:

Tell us what will your ramp time be before you become a meaningful contributor?

Ans:

Companies want staff that can ramp quickly, but also want people who are realistic. So take into consideration how intense the job is and then give a good answer. For example, if you have simple responsibilities that don't require a huge development curve, then your ramp time will probably be shorter. If it's a complex set of skills that you need to develop, then your ramp time could be longer - the key is you have to explain why you believe that ramp time should be.

Question - 10:

Explain me how do you feel about handling irate customers or visitors?

Ans:

Well, no one really likes to get into unpleasant situations but handling irate customers and visitors is all part of the work of a front office coordinator. I don't mind it a bit and take the challenge positively.

Question - 11:

What are your salary expectations as Operations Coordinator?

Ans:

Many consider this question to be a loaded gun - dangerous in the hands of the inexperienced. Often times, an interviewee will start talking salary before they've had an opportunity to illustrate their skill set and value making any sort of leverage valueless. Here, knowledge is power, as salary often comes down to negotiation. Do some research into your industry to establish base rates of pay based on seniority and demand but keep in mind - your employer is hiring you for what they believe you are worth, and how much benefit they feel you will provide.

Question - 21:

What experience do you have when it comes to discussing our recently posted as Operations Coordinator?

Ans:

Ever since my first paper route at age 10 I've been doing something to keep myself busy and earn money. Back then, it was obviously about earning some spending money. What I didn't realize was that I was actually starting the journey of establishing what I liked to do and how I fit in to the grand scheme of things. I then worked as a junior computer tech in my last 2 summers of high school. It was here that I discovered what I was passionate about and what I wanted to do. I enrolled in college to get my degree in computer sciences, and I have been working around technology ever since.

Question - 22:

What do you see yourself doing in five years as Operations Coordinator?

Ans:

This one is all about job commitment.

Some people make job hopping a career in of itself, and your answer here can be telling. Here, your interviewer is determining if you are:

- * someone who sets goals
- * someone who has a vision
- * someone who is reliable
- * someone who demonstrates commitment
- * someone who is loyal

While no interviewer expects someone to stay at a company forever, try and craft your response in such a way that shows progression in your career, and alignment with the Company's needs and future. Again, self awareness is key - your employer doesn't want to send you down an unwanted path, resulting in wasted time and energy for everyone.

Question - 31:

What are your weaknesses as Operations Coordinator?

Ans:

Another tricky one. The purpose of this question is to see how you view and evaluate yourself.

One the one hand, if you suggest you don't have any weaknesses, your interviewer will almost certainly see you as a liar, egotistical, or both.

Don't fall into the trap of trying to present a positive skill in disguise as a weakness, like "I work too hard" or "I am a perfectionist". Any experienced interviewer will see through this in a heartbeat.

Additionally, revealing that "I'm not really a morning person and have been known to come in late" raises immediate and obvious red flags.

Question - 35:

Explain me do you value recognition or pay more? Why?

Ans:

Either preference is fine, but just remember you have to be able to explain why. If you say recognition, then back that up by describing how achievement really carries weight with you and how you like to feel valued in the work that you do because it validates that you're helping your teammates / customers and so forth. If you choose money, you can also explain that is important to you as validation and you can highlight how money is important to you because of your goals (financial security, providing for your family, and so forth). The key is to be authentic with your answer. However, if you say you value pay more because you're greedy - know that doesn't align usually to most company's values/vision.

Question - 37:

Tell us if you were given a choice of working at the backend or the front-end, which one would you choose and why?

Ans:

I would gladly take up front-end work because I feel that I have it in me to interact positively with different types of people on a regular basis. I like working at the forefront because of all the challenges that it has to offer.

View All Answers

Question - 38:

Explain me how deep is your interaction with people in the role of an operations coordinator?

Ans:

Working as an operations coordinator is all about working with people. Since you have to create and maintain effective working relationships with several departments (both internal and external), people are your key to everything. Interaction is all in a day's work.

View All Answers

Question - 39:

Tell us what is the essence of an operations coordinator's work?

Ans:

Putting people and objects together to provide goods and services is the essence of an operation coordinator's work. Working at this position means that you blend skills in human resource management, administration and customer service to bring about operational smoothness of an organization.

View All Answers

Question - 40:

I do not expect you to go into too much detail - but why are you leaving your last job as Operations Coordinator?

Ans:

An innocent question. But a question that if answered improperly, can be a deal breaker. While many individuals will be looking to a new job as a means of increasing their salary, "not being paid well enough at your last job" is not something you want to mention to your interviewer. After all, are you not likely to leave this particular job if you found you could make more down the street?

If you're currently employed and leaving of your own accord, craft your response around enhancing your career development and a seeking out of new challenges.

If your current employer is downsizing, be honest about it, remain positive, but keep it brief. If your employer fired you or let you go for cause, be prepared to give a brief - but honest - reply. No matter how tempting it may be, or how "unfair it was that they let you go" steer clear away from any and all drama and negativity. Any experienced employer understands that sometimes things happen. Staying positive is key here.
