Filling Machine Operator Interview Questions And Answers Guide.

Question - 1:

Explain me what do you deem the most important task of a Filling Machine Operator?

Ans:

I believe that the work that machine operators perform prior to a shift holds the most importance. This is because there are a lot of pre checks that we have to perform to make sure that machines will run optimally. And it is at this time that most of the troubleshooting takes place so that deadlines can be met and there are no delays.

Question - 2:

Tell me an instance when your supervisor was not happy with your work?

Ans:

When I was responsible for ensuring accurate machine settings at the embroidery machine department, the supervisor called me and asked me to adjust the settings in a manner that both sides of the motive appear neat and are useable. I followed the manual and did it but the supervisor wanted more neatness. I took it as a challenge and after consistent multiple attempts and detailed study of the manual I finally achieved the correct settings.

Question - 4:

Tell us why should we hire you for the position as Filling Machine Operator?

Ans:

This is the part where you link your skills, experience, education and your personality to the job itself. This is why you need to be familiar with the job description as well as the company you will be working for.

It is possible that you may not have as much skills, experience and qualifications as the other candidates.

So what will set you apart from the other candidates? Energy and passion will.

Clients are attracted to someone who will show immense and can show that they love what they do. Be sure to portray yourself as motivated, confident and ready to commit to the company.

Question - 5:

Tell me why do you want this job as Filling Machine Operator?

Ans:

Companies want to hire people who are passionate about the job. So you need to have a great answer prepared about why you want the position.

First, identify a couple of key factors that you make fit the job description, then state why you like the company. For example:

"I love the customer support because I love the human interaction and the satisfaction that comes from helping people solve problems. I have always been passionate about working in a busy, hands-on environment, so I want to be a part of this job."

Question - 6:

Please explain how do you handle stressful situations in a warehouse?

Ans:

You may be someone who can handle pressure and that's great. If you can't handle pressure that well, don't panic. You can say something like: "I'm sufficiently experienced to appreciate that there is only so much you can reasonably be expected to be capable of and the solution is not to panic but to remain focused on delivering your very best."

Working in a warehouse environment especially on the run up to Christmas can be stressful.

The key to formulating your answer to this question is to seize this as an opportunity to talk about a situation or an occasion where you were under pressure - and you how rose to the challenge. Try to avoid talking about an occasion when you were totally stressed out - but do acknowledge that you understand stress and are able to deal with it appropriately.

Question - 7:

Tell us what have you learned from mistakes on the production job as Filling Machine Operator?

Ans:

If you have never made a mistake on a job, then you do not seem credible. However, the example that you give to the interviewer should be fairly inconsequential and a learned lesson should arise from it.

Mistakes can be anything from wrong packaging on a product or simply not completing jobs within the time frame. This could be from lack of communication, so not always your fault.

Question - 8:

Tell us what strategies do you use to enhance communication and clarify yours and others messages?

Ans:

To ensure clear and accurate exchange of information with management and colleagues I usually repeat my messages and question directly for clarification without hesitation in case the message received is ambiguous. Effective communication is the key for machine operators because one misunderstood message can result in hundreds of mis-fed or wrongly fed machine commands which are sometimes irreversible or take too much time to cancel.

Question - 9:

Tell us what was your biggest professional fear and how did you overcome it as Filling Machine Operator?

Ans:

My name was nominated for transfer in backstitch machine section as supervisor in absence of the section in-charge. Since I had never supervised a team of machine operators and wasn't very good in backstitch operation either, I resisted the responsibility as much as I could. I was afraid I'll fail badly at supervision. Despite my reluctance I was assigned the duty and once I got hold of it, I performed it commendably for a period of one month. I learnt that accepting more responsibility and daring to explore unperfected horizons, staring in the face of one's fears is the key to professional growth. I now stand ready to accept any professional responsibility when it comes my way.

Question - 10:

Why do you want to work with us as Filling Machine Operator?

Ans:

A company will want to see how much you know about company culture and whether you have an understanding about the company culture. For example, if the company emphasises on integrity with customers then you should mention you would like to be in such a team because you believe in integrity.

If however, you are aware that the company values do not fit your thoughts then be honest. The best policy is to be honest with yourself.

Question - 24:

Explain me how important is quality control? Give us one an example of how you handle quality control checks?

Ans:

Everything that a machine operator does is to make sure that the quality of the end product is up to the mark. So quality is as important as meeting deadlines is. There are three measures that I take here:

- * Make sure that the machine room is in compliance with all sanitary requirements
- * Create reports so that the management is aware of daily machine operations
- * Perform checks and audits to make sure that machinery is running in compliance with set procedures

Question - 26:

Tell us a time when you had to work with a difficult supervisor?

Ans:

Right after my hiring at TMG Corporation as a machine operator, the manager changed. I was fairly new and still on training therefore was not yet familiar with the techniques they used. I faced too much criticism and explanation calls on minor errors. With time I realized that this check and balance was a big contributing factor in enhancing my skills and am till date thankful for the chance of learning under supervision of that person.
