Does your boss know you're here today?

Ans:

Usually, you probably haven't told your boss for obvious reasons. So it's ok to say that they do not. You don't want to upset the balance at your current job after all and nothing is guaranteed in an interview. The interviewer should understand this stance.

Question - 75:

How would you rate your communication and interpersonal skills for this job Regarding Avid Video Editor?

Ans:

These are important for support workers. But they differ from the communication skills of a CEO or a desktop support technician. Workers must be able to not only understand and help their clients, but must project empathy and be a warm, humane presence in their lives.

Question - 76:

What are your salary expectations Regarding Avid Video Editor?

Ans:

This question is like a loaded gun, tricky and dangerous if you're not sure what you are doing. It's not uncommon for people to end up talking salary before really selling their skills, but knowledge is power as this is a negotiation after all. Again, this is an area where doing your research will be helpful as you will have an understanding of average salary.

One approach is asking the interviewer about the salary range, but to avoid the question entirely, you can respond that money isn't a key factor and you're goal is to advance in your career. However, if you have a minimum figure in mind and you believe you're able to get it, you may find it worth trying.
